Make a Snoopy Finger Puppet

MATERIALS: an 8.5 x 11 piece of paper, black construction paper, red or pink construction paper, scissors, tape, black marker

1 Fold paper into thirds, lengthwise.

2 Fold the paper in half by bringing one of the open ends to the other and creasing a fold in the middle.

3 Bring one of the open ends up to the middle and crease flat.

4 Turn the paper over.

5 Bring the second open end up to the middle and crease flat.

6 The finished folded square should look like an "M" or "W" when placed on its side on a flat surface.

7 Hold the square with the open ends facing you.

8 Use your thumb and index finger to gently pinch the folded points toward each other so the open ends open up.

9 Pull the two inside pages together.

10 Place a piece of tape over the middle of the inside pages.

11 Put your index finger and middle finger inside one of the pockets you have created.

12 Put your thumb inside the pocket below.

13 Close the puppet mouth by bringing your thumb to your index and middle finger. Open the puppet mouth by opening your fingers.

14 Cut out two ears from black construction paper and glue them to the face of your Snoopy.

15 Cut out one tongue from red or pink construction paper and glue it inside Snoopy's mouth.

16 Use a black marker to give Snoopy eyes.

It should look like this!

A round-headed boy named Charlie Brown, a security blanket, and a five-cent psychiatrist—just some of the classics you will find when you visit the largest collection of Peanuts artwork in the world. Laugh at Schulz's original comic strips, learn about the art of cartooning, and Schulz's role in its development, watch documentaries and animated Peanuts specials in the theater, and draw your own cartoons in the hands-on education room. The Museum features changing exhibitions, a re-creation of Schulz's art studio, outdoor gardens, holiday workshops. and special events. Take a virtual tour of the Museum at schulzmuseum.org!
